CLUBS MUSIC WOMEN WORK

Autumn Passing.
Where you lie so mute and still In the little chamber's gloom, Sunbeams cross the window-sill, Weaving, as upon a loom, Shadows of a rose in bloom, While the eager bees distill Its sweet breathings of perfume.

Breaths of garden blown away In your childhood and the Spring.
It is autumn, but the May Comes home from her wandering And the birds, beguiled, still sing Many a vernal roundelay.
Hailing each south-seeking wing.

Lids that like a fading rose On your cheeks their petals cast, Lips that love can not refuse—Hold the mystery secret fast!
Truths that we shall know at last When the light of morning glows And the long dark night is past.
September 6, 1921.

His Name Is Proof of His Love

By NORA COLE SKINNER.
She shot him to death "because," she said, "he married another woman after having entered into a common law marriage with me."

No matter the names, it's but one of the many cases of this sort that comes to the fore every little while, with this the latest.

And the names mean nothing to us anyway, for invariably they are people nobody ever heard of until the gun was fired.

Yet, they must be humans of heart, humans of feeling, humans that have their problems, their hopes, and certainly their tragedies, the same as we.

When will women learn that love is all-protection, and that every man knows the greatest protection he can give to the woman he loves is his legal name? If he cannot give her his legal name, above all things, if his love be true, will he not take from her that jewel in a woman's crown—her good name?

Man knows full well that the world is harder on women than men.
He knows full well that the world allows and respects a double standard. Why cannot a woman come to know that when one who professes love, asks her to face these odds—he professes naught and asks all?

These offers that we read about, of marriage in six months or a year after first living together, were never conceived by an honorable man. And the marriage after such an agreement practically never takes place. He has argued what it may, I can imagine no reason, conjure no condition, that would make it right for any woman to live with any man six months before taking the marriage vows. If there is a reason why the marriage ceremony cannot or should not be performed right then, the same reason is sufficient for them to live apart until the given or prescribed time.

Any man who really loves would think of nothing else, and the more truly he loved the greater his respect and the more remote the thought of any but a legal marriage.

Almost daily, assuredly weekly, we read of some woman or girl shooting or suing a common law husband for not fulfilling his promise of marriage, or contesting a will, filling against an estate, for a share in a fortune concerning which she had no legal right.

It is to be deplored that a suave, smooth-talking man of agreeable appearance can convince a weak, simple-hearted little girl into believing that whatever he urges is right and honorably, ultimately for her good, and that when this and that and the other has transpired they will live themselves to the little church around the corner and legitimize their past with a ring and a prayer.

But it is beyond the ken of the average mind that women of 31 and more, who have seen something of the world, have made their way through both the soft and hard planes, and learned somewhat of the truths of life, should enter into a compact with a man the nature of which calls for secrecy, deceit and isolation and expect him to be of the caliber that, having secured all she had to give, at some future, unsettled and unrecorded day, would conform to a verbal promise that only the acclamings of her shame could compel.

Love is all-protecting, and every man knows that the best protection he can offer the woman he loves is his legal name.

May women come to know this more and more.

Secret Door Gives Up Liquor.
One of the largest plants of Jamaica ginger the officers say they have uncovered for some time, was raided last Tuesday night when city detectives Al Sanders, Ike Wilkson, Ned Griggs, Frank Byrd, Sid Jackson and Hiram Stephens seized 110 bottles of "Jake" hidden by a trap door which was operated by hair pliers, in a drug store by Lindsey Coleman on West First street. The plant was situated under the floor behind the prescription case.

State Briefs

Robbed Chief of Police.
HARTSHORNE—A burglar entered the home of J. R. Berry, chief of police, Sunday night, and stole the officer's shirt and a gold watch which hung beside the bed, while he slept.

Alleged Bandit Held.
OKMULGEE—Hershel Goddard, under charge of highway robberies in this and Oklahoma counties, was bound over to superior court under Thursday morning the accusation of having robbed M. L. Limbarker of several dollars in money and an automobile near Beggs several weeks ago.

Ask Sheriff to Resign.
MALESTER—A number of leading republicans of Pittsburg county have signed a petition asking Sheriff Sant to resign. This action followed the second jail delivery Monday. Undersheriff Brown has already resigned.

Ordered Back to Arkansas.
OKLAHOMA CITY—Federal Judge Cotter has upheld the decision ordering the return to Arkansas jurisdiction of Joseph Wade Lesart, charged with white slavery, where he was indicted. It is alleged that he transported a woman from Hot Springs to Ponca City last May. An appeal to the federal circuit court is likely.

Prize for Largest Family.
ARMORE—A feature of the county fair, now in progress, is a prize offered by F. W. Berryhill to the farmer bringing in the largest family to the fair. The prize is a 33-barrel galvanized tank.

Cotton Sparks Burns.
SNYDER—Sparks thought to have come from a passing train set fire to the Wallace cotton gin early this morning, destroying the plant.
The loss is estimated at $30,000, about half covered by insurance.

Find Ruby Darby's Car.
OKLAHOMA CITY—Charged with possession of a stolen Stutz car formerly the property of Ruby Darby, well known in vaudeville, Carl Hughes, taxi driver, was arrested Thursday. The machine had been missing for five months, and Miss Darby had long ago collected $3,000 insurance and invested it in a Packard. Hughes claims to have found the car from another party.

May Get Cavalry Troop.
KINGFISHER—Kingfisher is to organize a troop of cavalry for the national guard of the state. The federal government will furnish the horses and equipment. Polo teams are to be formed and field meets encouraged.

Farmers War on Wolves.
ARMORE—Farmers throughout the northwestern part of Carter county are organizing to combat the depredations being caused nightly by wolves. As a result, night wolf hunting has become a popular outdoor sport in this section.

Vote on Electric Lights.
CRESCENT—An election has been called here to vote funds for the construction of electric light connections from Guthrie to Crescent. This city is said to be the largest town in Oklahoma without electric service.

Bloodhounds After Robbers.
SALLISAW—Posses with dogs were trailing two bandits near Gans, 13 miles south of here in Reagonah county, Tuesday. The two had visited Gans Monday night, signaling their presence by blowing up the safes in two stores and robbing a cash drawer. The loss at the stores has not been checked.

Stillwater to Improve.
STILLWATER—The chamber of commerce has under consideration plans to vote a bond issue for the purpose of building a system of parks, publishing a city directory, establishing an automobile club and the holding of a state show and fair festival. Trade days will be held the third Wednesday of each month.

Here Is Sweet News.
IDABEL—McCurtain county farmers are busy gathering their state, most of the men required being already in the employ of the company but engaged in other work around the plant.

To Utilize Shale.
HENRYETTA—West Virginia interests are organizing a pottery company that will make use of the shale from the Henryetta coal mines.

250 Liquor Cases.
KINGFISHER—More than 250 liquor cases will be brought before the federal grand jury which meets here the latter part of the month. Most of the cases are new ones, having accumulated during the summer vacation of court.

College Opens Promisingly.
SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.
KINGFISHER, Sept. 14.—Kingfisher college opened Tuesday with the largest enrollment in its history.
The president, Henry Tuttle, feels that this will be a record year for the college. The football squad is in fine trim, and expecting to reach a high mark during the season.

Assaultant Gets Five Years.
TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 14.—William McBroom, who last winter cut the throat of a man at Hulbert, was convicted a day or so ago and received a five years' term at the state penitentiary. Had not a physician been secured within a few minutes the victim would have died. His jugular vein was cut, but he survived and is yet able to transact business.

Census of Postal Delivery.
CUSHING, Sept. 14.—In an endeavor to obtain more space for the local postoffice, officials here have arranged for a daily count of the people who call at the general delivery window for their mail. These counts report that 1,500 people used the general delivery window Monday of this week.

Few Men Get Employment.
CUSHING, Sept. 14.—After a long shutdown officials of the Empire refinery here announce that they have again begun to run crude at their plant. Very few men will be employed at present. Officials state, most of the men required being
around the plant.

National Adjutant to Come.
SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.
INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 14.—Lemuel Bollen, of Indianapolis, national adjutant of the American Legion, will attend the reunion, here, of the war veterans of the state, September 26-27. Mr.
Bollen will address the convention the opening day.
